

How Architecture of Real Bird Houses in Zoological Park

The Zoological Society, under the direction of William T. Hornaday, has established an exhibit of bird houses for the purpose of encouraging the return of our vanishing birds. Such contrivances have been installed in Zoological Park, where they constitute a stable summer exhibition. This is the first time such a collection has been exhibited in this country. Some of these bird houses are elaborate, but as the birds appear to prefer simplicity, rather than luxury, in their homes, the preponderating tendency is strongly toward neat logs, where such homes are acceptable to the birds. Even where artificial bird houses are used, some little study of the habits of the birds who are expected to utilize them is desirable, since a nest which is a quiet spot in which a nest will of course not use a box, however otherwise suitable to its wants, if the box is placed in the open or where the bird is subject to disturbance. The Zoological Society exhibit is a highly academic, in that it shows by actual specimens that have been installed just what progress has been made in the architecture of bird houses as produced by man. Considerable variety is shown to the characteristic of the various bird houses. Nesting logs are now made in six sizes to suit the bulk requirements of various birds. A good shelter shown has weather vane attachment, so that its back is constantly turned toward the wind. Since the extinction of the great auk, the Labrador duck, and the passenger pigeon and the near extinction of the Equimau curlew, the trumpeter swan, the whooping crane, the Carolina parakeet, the great white egret and the snowy egret, the question of artificial bird houses has assumed greater importance than ever before, and the Zoological Society exhibit is exceedingly informative.

Keith Avenue Car Runs Amuck. A Keith Avenue car bound for New York suddenly developed brake trouble. It approached Lewis Avenue this morning. It knocked over a delivery wagon belonging to Joseph Jessick, and split him and his driver, Harry Trifling, rendering both unconscious. Then it bumped into a big Horden motor truck loaded with milk and hurt Charles Schifman, the driver, also twisted its own front platform half off and smashed the motorist, John Mahoney. Ambulances from Cumberland and St. John's hospitals cared for the injured men, and traffic was resumed after half an hour.

CAN A MEDICINE BE A "FAKE"

that has lived and grown in popularity for thirty years, and demonstrated its worth by actual cures of female ills in thousands and thousands of American families?

Any fair-minded, intelligent person will emphatically answer NO! Such a medicine is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, and its ever increasing popularity is due to actual merit alone.
